The screenshot displays a motion capture software interface. At the top, there are three progress indicators: "Video Editing" (active), "Format Choosing", and "Motion Generating". To the right, there are "Next" and "Reset" buttons. The main area is split into two panels. The left panel shows a video frame of a person in a black school uniform, with a blue bounding box around them. A red arrow points from the "Unreal 4" option in the "Output Format" menu to this bounding box. The right panel, titled "Output Format", contains a grid of character models: "Unreal 4" (highlighted with a red box and a "Last Use" tag), "Girl FBX", "Boy FBX", "Mixamo", "VMD", and "BIP". At the bottom, there is a video player with a timeline and a "Clip undo" button.
